WE NOMINATE

Bani Knight Shorter, diminutive 38-year old mother of two and a gilded teacher-writer, whose drive, ability and understanding are making it possible for some 300 Princeton youngsters to participate in a 10-week "Asian Summer" which seeks to lift the "iron curtain of ignorance" separating Americans from vast, and vitally important, non-Western regions and peoples. By summer's end it is entirely conceivable that these junior Princetonians, benefiting from the Public Library's initiative and facilities and enrolled in the Playground Program, will know infinitely more about the Near, Middle and Far East than the majority of their elders — and even their older sisters and brothers.

The "Shorter approach" to Asia, rooted in nearly two decades of intensive study and some five years of residence and research in India and Pakistan, is a direct one that combines community leadership resources with thoughtfully projected Library programming. Consequently, 13 skilled storytellers, each a specialist in his area and including a 72-year old volunteer commuter from New Hope, Pa., make the rounds of nine playgrounds, one talking about Iran, another about China and so on. They are supported by Library exhibitions, special events and a continuing series of Open Houses, featuring such guests as Pearl Buck and to which adults are invited, "if accompanied by a child."

Mrs. Shorter, a native of Westport, Maine, and a "history major" with the Class of 1944 at Colby College (Waterville, Maine), became acutely aware of the "world around us" during her graduate studies at Haverford College and some 30 months with the American Friends Service Committee. Married in 1945 to an able Princeton University economist largely concerned with the under-developed nations, she and her husband have completed three tours of duty in the Far East. While Professor Shorter was pondering the India-Pakistan Partition, Mrs. Shorter — whose Indian name, Bani, bears small resemblance to her christened Bernice and her nickname, Bunny — was completing her readable "India's Children."

The mother of 10-year old Rangit in the Littlebrook School and 13-year old Shephali in the Valley Road School, the former a member of the Library's 11-member Asian Committee, Mrs. Shorter first sought to acquaint American students with the Far East in the University Elementary School of the University of California at Los Angeles. There, as a demonstration teacher and supervisor of potential secondary school teachers, she guided a pilot study of India and developed teaching materials that were to form the basis of the pioneering reading list, "Books on Asia for Children," she compiled a year ago for The Asia Society.

In a manner reminiscent of many great American educators, who look upon teaching as a continuing, dynamic force rather than as a transitory experience, Mrs. Shorter envisions a hard core of Princeton "Library Helpers." In her initial proposal to Librarian Margaretta Barr, she suggested that "we may be able to build up a small group who would like to meet with us from time to time and to help make this program live for others." One of her proteges strengthened her hope in stating recently, upon finishing a new book: "I always thought that Indians were just Indians, but now I know they are people."

For helping lift Princeton's sights in a period when too many Americans seem strangely reluctant to look beyond the Western World; for giving a new sense of purpose to an area-wide recreational program; for dramatizing the Library's capacities for service to Princetonians of all ages; she is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as

WEATHER REPORT: BAD
No Rain in Sight. The drought that began June 24 and has been marked by a scant .03 inches of rain in the last 25 days has only a parched future. Science Associates, Princeton-based weather-forecasting firm, reports that "no precipitation is in sight before Saturday and the chance of widely scattered showers over the weekend is only .50."

Adding to the frustration of the property owner and gardener is the growing hardship of farmers throughout the Garden State is the U.S. Weather Bureau's long-range forecast for the next 30 days: "Sub-normal precipitation throughout the northeastern section of the nation."

Already, eight of New Jersey's 21 counties have been declared disaster areas by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, acting in Washington upon an appeal from Governor Hughes to President Kennedy. Three are in the southern portion of the state five others to the north, with neighboring Hunterdon the nearest.

In Mercer, the situation is still well short of becoming critical and the only area really hard hit, according to County Agricultural Agent Richard Lippincott, is Hopewell Township. There, the pasture areas of dairy farmers are burned out, and herds are being fed with winter supplies of hay.

Dry Statistics. Above average precipitation in June largely atoned for a brief drought in May, but the last rainfall last month was on June 24, when 15 inches fell. Thereafter, the Stony Brook Pumping Station of the Princeton Water Company clocked off 19 consecutive days without measurable rainfall. Saturday brought raindrops over a period of several hours, but they were so characteristic that their residue came to a useless .03 inches.

During the week ending Saturday, the Water Company reported, daily consumption averaged 3.4 million gallons—more than a third above normal. With a return to the community-wide sprinkling schedule now in effect, water use has decreased to 2.6 million gallons per day—an outgo that is considered satisfactory.

To alleviate the drain on its artesian wells, the Water Company has been taking about a million gallons a day from the Delaware and Raritan Canal. This operation was made possible by a filtering process used for the first time last October.

Company officials report that the supply is "being watched closely." The present drought—currently the most severe since 1957 and patently set to exceed other more serious—can be broken only by a steady rain lasting the better part of two days. Weather forecasters agree, but add that none is in sight.

The sprinkling schedule (which police will enforce at the Water Company's request) Monday and Thursday—odd numbered houses.

Tuesday and Friday—even numbered houses.

Wednesday and Sunday—unnumbered country houses. Churches, schools and other institutions should call the company for a time assignment.

"CAN'T WIN" RULING
Drafted For Dog Control. "We probably won't satisfy anyone," said Township Committee member William L. Wilson on Monday night as he introduced a revised dog ordinance. He added that even the present judgment of the Committee is not unanimous.

The Committee struck its biggest snag in the problem of allowing dogs to roam on public streets. "However," Mr. Wilson said, "a majority of the Committee . . . have the opinion that the granting of this measure of freedom to dogs and of responsibility to their owners should be given a trial."

No Community Rights. The proposed ordinance says in the preamble: "We believe that dogs, off the property of their owners, have no community rights — only privileges that the community and owners of private property can afford them or can withhold. . . . We believe the municipality should assume the responsibility and take all reasonable steps to reduce these objectionable occurrences to a minimum."

Item number one of the proposed ordinance provides for a dog control officer and authorized the officer and the police to pick up any dog that "habitually barks, chases vehicles or injures the property of others than its owners; endangers persons or property; or bites or molests persons." The owner of the offending dog would be subjected to the expense of recovering his dog and to possible legal penalties.

"No Dogs Allowed." Under the ordinance, it would be unlawful for a dog to be on private property against the will of the property owner. No dogs would be allowed on school property or in public park and recreation areas "except in accordance with regulations that the supervising public authorities may adopt or on any public property except streets and highways."

Dogs may run at will on their owners' property or on any other private property if the owner of the property raises no objection. They may run freely about the community if under the control of a responsible person. Leasing is not required. And they can run on public streets and highways.

Now Just a Minute. Committee John S. Mount took issue like Bob, Son of Battle. "Why should we ignore the advice of the Township staff? All of them are against allowing the dogs to roam. The administrative officer, the chief of police, the health officer and the superintendent of schools have all given public testimony against this."

"What about the protection of children going to and from school? And there are elements of discrimination here. Some responsible dog owners will fence in their property and the less responsible ones will let their dogs run on the streets. What's more, this ordinance ignores preventative action."

"I think this Committee has ignored the true function of a governing body. It is our duty to create legislation that will solve the problem, not to come in with some kind of solution that makes everybody happy. This ordinance is an in-between solution."

Mr. Mount commented that "unethical pressures" had been placed on the Committee since the first discussion of a revised dog ordinance. Committee member Thomas F. Cook said, "Just one thing I would like in mention: Even total restraint is not going to solve all of our problems. In Lawrence Township they have had a total restraint for two years but still they have about 60 dog bites a year."

Mr. Cook then moved that the drafted dog control ordinance be formally presented for hearing. Mayor Fairman designated the Valley Road School as the place and asked administrator Joseph Nini to find an open date early in September.

Catchers and Shelters. Mr. Cook commented that the Committee had held two hearings on a dog ordinance so far and suggested that the Township staff looking for a dog control officer immediately, rather than wait for the ordinance to be passed.

Mr. Mount interposed that a dog shelter should be given priority. "If an officer picks up an increased number of dogs, where's he going to put them?"

Mayor Fairman said that he plans to discuss the matter of dog shelters with the Borough. Mr. Mount added that the Borough Council has discussed this and reported to us it'd be willing to go along with us in the dog officer matter. The Committee then voted unanimously to authorize Gordon Griffin, attorney for the Township and Borough, to draft an ordinance authorizing the new position of Township dog control officer.

LOVERS LANE BAN. Township Veter. Parking. The shadow of Elder Brewster fell on Princeton's Lovers Lane this week. The Township Committee has forbidden parking on the historic street.

The reasons given were not among those dreamed of by the crusty ruler of the Massachusetts Puritans, who divided the saints and sinners with a clear black line. The Township fathers enough their ruling in Twentieth Century language. Lovers Lane two is a busy two-way street, they said, and there is no room for parked cars. They had the backing of the Traffic Safety Committee.

Baseball, not morals, caused it, they said. The midweek league games at Marquand Park—which fronts on Lovers Lane—brought too many cars to the park. The overflow from the Park parking lot lined Lovers Lane with automobiles and traffic was hazardous.

Robert S. Bell, 29, Lovers Lane, told the Committee, "I think this is a wise ordinance." He drew their attention to the fact that the lane currently has no street sign. "The students keep stealing them."

Footnote: Lovers Lane, formerly called "Lovely Lane" is one of the border streets between Borough and Township. It runs between Stockton and Merckville.

On the old maps, the dividing line runs down the middle of the Lane. But the Township has accepted the job of policing the street, and plans to consult with the Borough as to additional parking arrangements at Marquand Park.

GUEST HOUSE PLANNED. By Seminary. Princeton Theological Seminary will apply for zoning variances on July 26 to permit the use of Swinerton House, 12 Library Place, as a guest house for lecturers and visitors to the Seminary.

The Seminary has announced plans to purchase the house, the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Walker W. Stevenson, Jr. It is on the west side of Library Place opposite Spencer Memorial Library.

The house adjoins the site of the Seminary residence, razed last summer, long occupied by the late Dr. and Mrs. Charles R. Erdman. The Seminary proposed to build faculty housing units on the site but the plans ran into opposition from area residents. The new plans will be submitted to the Borough Zoning Board of Adjustment.

At the same meeting, Princeton University will apply for permission to construct a parking lot in the interior of the block bounded by Edwards Place, University Place and Dickinson Street.

The area is belted a row of university-owned faculty houses on the south side of Edwards Place. The lot would be used by the occupants of adjoining university-owned houses, and possibly members of the university staff and visitors.

Person to Person

The other day, a Navy friend gave us some background about subnaunics that we thought you'd find interesting. It seems Cory S. Kammler that in 1855 in Russia, a Baravian inventor named Wilhelm Bauer, took three musicians under the waters of Kronstadt Harbor in a submarine he had built, and he had them play appropriate music for the coronation of Emperor Alexander II of Russia, which was taking place nearby. Bauer succeeded in giving the coronation its most unusual touch, because the music, seeming to come from nowhere, was clearly heard throughout the coronation ceremonies. In 1855 who could have guessed that the music was coming from beneath the water of the harbor? Apparently the skin of the submarine was thin enough to allow sound vibrations to transmit through the shell and then through the water to reach quite clearly the ears of the throngs at the coronation. In so many things it is the "unusual," the "something more," which makes the big difference between ordinary and extraordinary. Frequently it is an unseen "something" that you feel only in the better results you get. That is why we always try to give you "something more" for your maximum satisfaction and economy. We're Moving To Princeton!

Dear Princeton,
It is inevitable that Viking Furniture would be more than moderately interested in design from Scandinavia. Scandinavian design stands out like a bright beacon in a gray room. The hand of the artist is present in everything, from the humblest pot holder to serious possessions of timeless value. Since we at Viking believe that every moment and every movement should be endowed with significance and beauty, we have devoted our entire stock to things from Scandinavia.

Just a word to let you know that Viking Furniture is moving to Princeton, 259 Nassau Street will be our new address. (Watch TOWN TOPICS for opening.) The demand for fine Scandinavian furniture has been overwhelming.

I'd like to take this opportunity to thank all of you for making this possible, for without your patronage this move would not have been possible.

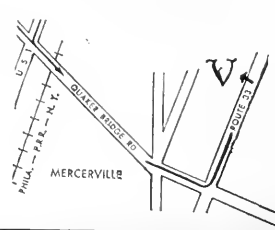

ALL OF THE FURNITURE IN THE ROUTE 33 STORE WILL BE REDUCED 30%! Dux, Tanager, Royal and Lanning are just a few of the manufacturers that will be represented at 30% off.

TEMPERS FRAY
And School Gets Ruin
Home-stretch tensions are paying off at Community Park School. The new building for primary grades will be the first post-war school structure in the Township to be completed by the opening of the fall term.

It hasn't been easy. Leonard
M. Hymerling told the school board. As chairman of the board's construction committee, he has stepped up the "job meetings" with the general contractor, Kehoe-Dowd & Son, of Passaic, and the subcontractors from months to bi-weekly.

Prodding, hasseling and has-slinging with the general contractor have left Mr. Hymer-ling a bit grim. "I've been in the contracting business since 1934 and I draw a hard hardship myself, but I've never lost my patience as I have at the last two meetings with that man. If I ever see his name on another bid I'm not going to have anything to do with it."

However, the donkeyhooks have caused Mr. Hymerling to point to progress in his outside way.

"By the first of August, the first and second floors will be livable except for blackboards. Delivery of chairs and desks could begin this Monday. Library will be finished by the middle of this week."

"Criteria is what I've ever seen.
It's ready. So is the auditorium except for a final coat of paint and tile flooring. The gym floor will have the tile put in about the middle of next week.
By the end of the first week in August everything will be complete inside. Remainder of the building should be finished about August 15."

A Question of Two Percent.
The nut of the most recent go-round between the School board and Kehoe-Dowd is the two percent of the building cost retained by the School board until Community Park has been in use one full year.
The two percent amounts to $5,519.96. Kehoe-Dowd requests that this part of the contract be dropped left Mr. Hymerling

ing offered to take out another performance bond with the handling company to cover the $9,500.

"It ought to be double," Mr.
Hymerling said, "if we let him get away with it."

"The best way to get the performance is to hold the money," said A. Robert Trudel.

Questioned as to contract deadlines and clauses, Mr. Hy-merling said that the deadline for completion had been extended from June 27 to July 1 to August 15.

The contractor, he said, brought his attorney to the last job meeting and they claimed December 1 was the deadline. They argued that delays caused by strikes, weather and the architect had put the building back by five months

"Kehoe offers to put on extra men and extra time if we waive the two percent clause.
I've been begging him to put on extra men for months," said Mr. Hymerling, rubbing his thinning hair.

He went on, "I want all that heavy machinery out of here."

The school board settled for speed. It approved a change in contract, whereby Kehoe-Dowd, Inc. may substitute a performance bond for the two percent, providing the building is certified complete by the architect as of August 15.
The amount of the bond is to be $19,000.

TOWNSHIP BUYS A BUS

"Built Like a Tank." The Township School Board has invested $5,719.96 in its first school bus. Currently the Board rents buses for about ten routes at $3,600 a route.
Mrs. Dorothy E. Schoch, mother of three, who headed the bus committee appointed by the school board, reported that the new bus "is reinforced top and bottom, and there is a safety hand around the sides so that the bus won't telescope."

"Darn thing's built like a tank," added Dr. John J. Mc-Kenna, superintendent of schools.

Under Title 18, Dr. McKenna explained, the state reimburses schools up to 75 percent of the cost of transporting pupils who live two or more miles from school.

The new bus, which will take care of the kindergarten run and short excursions, will be driven by members of the janitorial staff. Seventy-five percent of the cost of those time spent driving will also be reimbursed by the state.

Mrs. Schoch and Dr. McKenna told the Board that the bus would replace $7,500 worth of contracts in one year. The Volvo was already paid for now and will be used to transport exceptional children next year.
The Volvo has already paid for itself," Dr. McKenna noted.

The School Board's request for bids covering a 38-children bus drew response from Nassau Motors, Turney Motors, Wallis Motors, Westbrook Motors, International Harvester and Veit Motors. The Paulshoro firm, Veit Motors, won out with bids of $3,363 and $5,534. The committee selected a d-d safety features. Mrs.

Schoch said, including power steering, which accounted for the increased cost.

LETTER DRAWS DENIAL.

From Richard Pearson, "The present Township School Board did not seriously consider severing the sending-relationship with the Borough at the expiration of the present agreement in 1965," President Richard Pearson told Mrs. Sabra Meserve.

Speaking at the regular meeting of the board, he protested Mrs. Meserve's letter to TOWN TOPICS charging the school body with reversing its position at last April.

PLAYBILL CHANGE
"Arms and the Man" Neal. In a last minute switch-over which baffled even the publicity man, the Princeton Players have cancelled "The Rehearsal" and substituted George Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Man," which opens next Tuesday.

The CBS comedy will star Eric Berne, who appears in the current offering "Tonight We Improvise" by Pirandello. Mr. Berne made his stage debut in the Broadway production of "Inherit the Wind" and has appeared in various television shows. Other players will be Lynn Milgrim and Don Marhatt, both of whom have taken leading roles in recent Players' productions.

"Arms and the Man" is one of Shaw's earliest plays. It pokes fun at such institutions as war, romantic love and the nouveau riche. Miss Milgrim plays the part of a young girl who rejects her heroic soldier-lover in favor of a cynical Swiss hotelkeeper.
Curtain time at the Players' theatre, 259 Nassau Street, is 8:30 p.m.; tickets are $2 and $2.25.

NEW COMEDY OFFERED
By Bucks County Playhouse. "When The Beer Goes National," a new comedy by John Erbe, will open Monday at Bucks County Playhouse in New Hope. Starring Paul McGrath and Frances Reid, the play will run through August 6.

The comedy, destined for Broadway, will have its world premiere at the Playhouse. The title of the play refers to the efforts of a man to convince the brewer of a midwestern beer to market it on a national basis. The author is a native of Illinois and has used the locale of his home state for his first play. Currently at the Playhouse through Saturday is "The Miracle Worker."

The Peppermint Players will present two performances of their musical version of "Jack and the Beanstalk" at the Playhouse on Tuesday. Shows will be at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. An award winning children's show, The Peppermint Players are an adult professional repertory company organized by Paul Lubin. Mr. Lubin, who Seminary Sinks Guest House.

To the Editor of Town Topics: Public notice has been given that Princeton Theological Seminary has applied to the Zoning Board of Adjustment of the Borough of Princeton for a special permit that will enable the Seminary to establish and maintain a Guest House at 12 Library Place, now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Walker W. Stevenson, Jr.

This property is opposite the Robert E. Speer Library and is ideally situated for the Seminary's program. At the present time the increased enrollment of the Seminary has placed a heavy burden on existing facilities, and there is no other adequate space available for a Guest House.

Ministers and laymen who come for seminars in a program of continuing education would sojourn in the Guest House, as would visiting lecturers and leaders in the Ecumenical Movement who meet on the Seminary campus. The proposed Guest House is in no way connected with any plans the Seminary has for 20 Library Place, the site of the house long graced by Dr. and Mrs. Charles R. Erdman and their family. The two plans are separate and distinct.

For 150 years Princeton Seminary has been a member of this community. It enriches the deep roots which it has in Princeton and its historic ties with the Princeton community and with the other academic institutions located in Princeton. It is our high hope that the addition of these guest facilities will serve, as Allison House at 83 Stockton Street serves Princeton University, by helping outstanding scholars and leaders to Princeton and through them to enrich the intellectual, cultural and spiritual life of this community.

The Senate of his nobility for Secretary of State Henry Ford is a calm, restrained Lefebvre. Charles Laughton finds the opposition as the Walter Pidgeon puts in an excellent performance as the treacherous majority leader. Others equally effective. Theatrical Tone as the dying Frenchman, Low Ayres as the bestial vice-president and Tom Murray as the black-painted, Gene Tierney plays the role of Washington business and "friend" of Pidgeon in her welcome return to the screen. Comment: interesting interpretation of Allen Drury's novel.

support by comedian Red Buttons and the musical score by Henry Mancini.

The story takes place at the Momella Game Farm, outside near the town of Arusha, Tanzania, famed as a game headquarters run by men who capture wild animals for zoos and circuses. Wayne, as Sean Mercer, is head of the hunters. Buttons plays "Pockets," a former New York cab driver with a great sense of humor; Hardy Kruger is a former racing driver who chases herds of wild animals in a jeep, and Elsa Martinelli adds romance as the beautiful photographer sent to the farm on assignment. There are fantastic action scenes taken on safaris and several incidents of uproarious comedy. Comment: adventure laced with laughs.

THE GARDEN

El Cid (July 18-31) is a super spectacle. It interprets the story of the Cid, famed warrior of Eleventh Century Spain. The photography is magnificent.

Charles Heston portrays the stalwart hero in his usual grand style, this time highlighted by a poignant love theme involving beautiful Sophia Loren. There are several exciting battle scenes between the Moors and the Spanish. But the color camera work is most impressive, in many instances giving the feeling of witnessing the unfolding of a series of beautiful paintings by old masters. Comment: beautiful escapism.

PRINCE

The Notorious Landlady (July 18-26) Kim Novak, Jack Lemmon and Fred Astaire carry on a spoof of suspense thrillers. Lemmon, as a newly-appointed official of the American Embassy in London seeks to rent a flat from Miss Novak, a transplanted American. Smitten with love at first sight, he overcomes her objections to a single man as a tenant, and moves in. Then he learns from his superior at the Embassy, Astaire, that Miss Novak is suspected of having done away with her husband. An ingenious and suspenseful parody of Alfred Hitchcock's chiller follows. There are many delightful comedy moments. The only regretful thing is that Fred Astaire doesn't dance, don't ask me! Comment: Letterman on the farcical team.

GETTING MARRIED?
Allen's Will Help. Immediately following the selection of a groom, the first thing a girl does is to sit down with pad and pencil and decide on wedding dress and how the church is going to look. Often this exercise precedes the selection of a groom, but this takes us into realms of sociology beyond the scope of the present manuscript.

Planning ahead can be done easily and with effective results by working in partnership with Allen's Flowers of Hopewell. Mr. Allen is equipped by talent, temperament and experience to work out the complete design of a wedding, within whatever budget you give him, and he is available at his Broad Street shop to confer with you on all the details.

Mr. Allen, as we said, likes to work ahead, with plenty of time to plan, and he suggests that you get in touch with him as soon as you have decided on the colors you and your attendants will wear. (Some of Mr. Allen's customers have booked his services six months ahead. He does not take on more weddings than he can easily handle on a given day, so you should not delay in making your first Broad Street visit.)

Working from your own wedding dress and the dresses you have chosen for bridesmaids, Mr. Allen will suggest bouquets and show you sketches. For example, he will design a nosegay, flower basket or informal cascade for a short boisterous dress, and a formal grouping of orchids, lilies of the valley or stephanotis for a long dress with a church train.

If a gown is elaborate and detailed with appliques, seed pearls and embroidery, he will suggest a simple flower like a gardenia, but if the dress itself is unadorned, he will design an intricate bouquet with as much detailing as fine embroidery.

Mr. Allen, by the way, is a firm man. He will not produce such things as purple bouquets for green dresses, shall we say, nor will he dye flowers to match the whimsy of a bride who likes blue roses. Tactful, you understand, but firm.

He makes the bride's bouquet herself, turning the attendants' bouquets over to members of his staff.

Familiar by now with most of the churches in the area, Mr. Allen will show the bride a floor-plan of her church and suggest the placement of palms, large floral pieces and so on. An elaborate church needs very little, a simple country church may need quite a bit to give it the proper air for a large wedding.

Make Mine Raspberry

One of the most successful dresses on the Bellows' rack at the moment is a textured silk sheath that comes in more colors than there are silk-worms.

The dress itself is that good old word "basic," cut with round neck, no sleeves and a waist marked by a double stranded round sash. You may have it in a detectable pale pink, an ex-troverted raspberry, turquoise as blazing as the desert sky, all for $28, or in black, coffee-bean brown and a stormy ocean blue for $26. There is, of course, no alternative except to have one of each. How's a girl to decide!

Budgets and tastes vary so widely that it is impossible to say how much the floral part of a wedding may cost. Mr. Allen's rough rule is to divide a budget 50-50 between the wedding party and the church decorations. This formula applies to a good-sized wedding with quite a bouquet of bridesmaids and a moderately large church to decorate.

For your appointment, call HOpewell 6-0062.

ARE YOU PACKABLE?
Bellows is. Banton shifts in prints or solids will pack into anything larger than a wallet, can be washed, and will never show a wrinkle.

Bellows has them, hanging straight from the hanger and waiting for the wearer to give them shape and line. There are looping ties to hold in the waist.

One is a brown-black offbeat geometric print that is the most practical garment you will take anywhere. Another is black with four-inch flame red zinnias. ($25). Others are solid black, brown or pink, cut with three-quarter sleeves that are almost seven-eighths.

Silk knits, which look much the same except for their business-supplement, come in things like oversized paisley or a regal combination of raspberry pink, royal blue and lemon. You don't wash these by the way.

Ensembles for late summer and early fall are beginning to appear in the Bellows' stock. One boat-neck dress has a skirt of cluster petals falling from a flat, camembert midriff and a three-button jacket with lapel collar. The fabric is a steel blue with tan crossplaiding.

Dear Princeton:

Paris is fantastic! Thursday, July 5 was our first day there. That morning we saw "The Wicked Victory," "Venus de Milo" and the "Mona Lisa," not to mention countless other masterpieces, all housed in the magnificent Louvre. After lunch, we went sight-seeing on the Bateau Mouche (a boat down the Seine.

We had very beautiful views of Notre Dame, the Eiffel Tower, one of the models for the original Statue of Liberty, and the banks of the Seine itself, as well as many other parts of Paris. In the late afternoon, we gave a concert for a small group of people at UNESCO. After a quick dinner at the cafeteria in the building, we boarded the buses again to go to the Grand Opera.

We saw "Swan Lake." As to be expected on a tour, our seats were in the top balcony, but the ballet was beautiful.

On Saturday morning, the town of Malmaison and the inside of Versailles were eliminated so that we could sleep late and give a better performance at Fontainebleau that evening. After a brief visit to the gardens of Versailles, most of the afternoon was spent in traveling the 70 kms to Fontainebleau.

Our concert went well. Nadia Boulanger, at whose personal invitation we had sung, seemed pleased. We were received afterwards in two of her private chambers, and she kindly greeted each of the choir members as we entered.

Miss Boulanger mingled freely with her guests. She said she was sorry there were not enough chairs for everyone but invited us to make ourselves at home and sit on the floor. We had all fallen in love with her by the time we left. The soloists and Mr. and Mrs. Hilbish stayed to dine with her. The rest of us moved to a nearby Army base for our first American meal—hamburgers, French fries and real American cokes! Delicious!

Next day our schedule was trimmed down again, and all morning sight-seeing eliminated in order that we might sleep late. In the afternoon, we drove to the historic Abbey of Royaumont.

We sang in an old stone room with columns and vaulted ceiling. There could not have been a more perfect setting for the Stravinsky than this old chamber. The Choir, in their long dark blue saint-like robes, were dressed most appropriately. Some of the tourists, who saw us wandering around through the halls, seemed to mistake us for nuns and monks! Both the Choir and the audience left under a kind of enchantment.

Monday, July 9, was our last day in Paris. At 9 the buses drove us to the Place de l'Opera and left us for three days of independent activities. At 12 we met again and set off for Le Bourget Airport to take our plane for London.

We arrived at the London Airport at 3, visited Hampton Court, and reached our dormitories by 7:15. The next morning, we had scrambled eggs, toast and cereal for breakfast. What a change!

We spent the morning touring Westminster Hall, Westminster Abbey, the Houses of Parliament and Buckingham Palace. The weather was just as we missed the "Changing of the Guard." Some of us stood in the rain to see the Procession of Queen Elizabeth and the King of Liberia. This was a grand affair—Bands of both countries lined the streets down which they drove.

Late that afternoon, we gave our last concert—at the Royal College of Music. Before we sang, we met downstairs and Mr. Hilbish gave us a farewell speech.

To open our concert we sang the British and American national anthems. All of us were stirred by our own "Star Spangled Banner." We held up proudly well through the Webers and the first of the Bach, but by the last chorus of the JOURNEY'S END: The last of five letters by Elmer Almgren on the Princeton High School Choir's European tour is published this week.

By the final "Amen," there were tears in the eyes of many of us. Downstairs, after the concert, we really let go, as for the last time, we took off our blue robes which by now were such familiar apparel.

On Wednesday, we had our final long day of sight-seeing: St. Paul's, The Inns of Court, the Tower of London and the National Gallery in the morning; in the afternoon, the British Museum; in the evening an enjoyable production of the Yeomen of the Guard, given in the moat of the Tower of London.

On Thursday, July 12, we left London, passed the Windsor Castle, and by 3:30 were at the London Airport. We had a short flight of about an hour to Amsterdam where we were to board a DC 8 to bring us back to the States.

We were no sooner on the plane, than we were told to disembark. There was a delay of an hour and 25 minutes due to engine trouble! We were anxious because of the delay, but welcomed the time to do some last minute shopping. At 7:20 we finally got off the ground, and headed home.

At 8 we set our watches back to 3 p.m. and gained five hours of daylight. We made up one hour of the delay on route and arrived at Idlewild by 10 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time.

As we left the plane, we heard wild applause and cheers! There on the observation deck of the airport was a huge crowd of parents and friends. We returned the cheers with much enthusiasm, and gave vent to all the excitement that had been building up with the anticipation of coming back home.

A large white banner was unfurled with the words WELCOME HOME, PRINCETON HIGH SCHOOL CHOIR in big letters. What a thrill!

All of us appreciated this reception, and Mr. and Mrs. Hilbish seemed especially touched. We rushed forward to go through Customs. About half the Choir was met at the airport. The rest of us rode to Princeton in buses. There, another welcome: just as warm, greeted us.

Dear Princeton:

We ran into the arms of our parents and friends, and even before we had caught our breath, and said how glad they were to be home, the questions began to fly. "Did you have a nice trip?" "Tell me, what did the trip?" "Tell me, what do you think of Berlin?" "How was your family in Holland?" Not even the questions have not all been answered, and probably never will be.

What a trip we did have! We have made more friends, seen more beautiful—and terrible—sights and had more sheer adventure in the last four weeks, than ever before in our lives. But for the Choir, I think even more wonderful than all these things, have been the moments when we sang as a perfect whole, when we were suddenly inspired by music we had sung a hundred times before, when we went beyond just intonation and melody lines and technical perfection to create something beautiful, and to translate this beauty to other people, no matter in what language they spoke. This was more exciting than all the Eiffel Towers, Berlin Walls and the whole range of Alps.

In conclusion—and speaking for the whole Choir—I want to express our appreciation to many people. To the chaperones, who were so patient. To Mr. Hilbisch, who had the vision to conceive this trip and laid the groundwork many months ago for the series of concerts and the support of the State Department.

To all the schools, churches, stores, institutions, organizations and individuals, through whose contributions of money, time and effort, it became a reality. And to our own Mr. Stroup, who did such a superb job of pulling all the loose ends together. We sincerely thank each and every one of you for the opportunity you gave us to make this wonderful trip. We tried to represent you well.

It's New To Us

A dark Glen plaid has been used for a daron and cotton dress with short sleeves, bonnet at patent belt and a single button jacket with three-quarter

Textured silk and cotton displays four buttons, coachman style, with a flat front bow and buttons. The skirt is in a brown jacket, innocent of buttons, tops a one-piece dress cut with a straight skirt and a bodice of the same of V-necked of orange, gold and black, and we can see you wearing it every cool fall day.

Two of those black basic colors in the $20-25 price range will slip into your wardrobe as easily as they slip over your shoulders. One has peats that break at the knee and two knee buttons on the left shoulder. Comes in royal or red, too. The other has two lines of parallel white stitching around the neckline, accenting a white stitched sash above. It's sleeves with a round neck and a slightly A-flared skirt. Comes also in green, royal, toast, red or beige.

Cisa sends from Italy a pussy grey knit ensemble which jacket is deeply curved up to the single button closing. The sleeveless overblouse with front waist bow is pale pink, and there is a pale pink facing along the jacket edge, although the jacket itself is lined with silk. $150.

Kimberly's Chanel jacket has a double row of brass buttons against the forthright red. Skirt is red, too. A wool plaid collar erupts from the square little jacket of a red ensemble. The skirt is in a double row of brass buttons.

For your favorite cocktail dress, Bellows suggests a champagne knit, with a french empire puffed of champagne satin going all the way around to the back and a shattering bow. The same satin pipes the cap sleeves.

Juniors will wear a black silk crepe with inverted bow pleats that overlap for ruffled flatness. Top is basic. Another junior is a floral cotton stripe in daron and cotton with royal blue belt, shirtdress and $12.95 price tag.

News Of The THEATRES

LIFE AND ART
By Pirandello. The Princeton Players took a leap into the realm of Luigi Pirandello this week, with "Tonight We Improvise," an extension of his theme of life vs. art found in the earlier "Six Characters in Search of an Author." The latter play more or less comes to grips with the problem, whereas the current offering mostly skirts the issue with too much artificiality. The Players have again mounted an interesting production, but the quality of the acting is uneven. George Nestor plays the director, Dr. Fufusius, with a tedious flat aspect. Don Mariati, as Rico Verri, confuses the interpretation of his two roles, and perhaps in an excess of Pirandellian passion, overplays in his scene with his wife. Louisa Stein does infinitely better by Mommina, in her representation of a production of "Il Trovatore" in the final scene is superb. Virginia de Angelis is somewhat inadequate as Signora Ignarita and inadequate as the leading lady. Angelo Alexandris has not mastered the difficulties of his two roles in the first scene.

and real difficulties they are. The contrasts that Pirandello intended to convey as the actors emerge from the bonds of theatrical convention to improvisatory freedom in portraying life just do not jell. Those taking the minor roles do little to create the necessary backdrop for the major theists, and the sum of the play is a handful of fragments. Pirandello fans who see the play, whose final performance is Saturday, should be prepared to hear others laugh at the wrong moments.

CONCERT PLANNED

To End Summer Program. A concert of orchestra, band and string, brass and woodwind ensembles will be held Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Princeton High School auditorium. It will mark the end of a five-week summer program in the high school's music department.

The concert will be the eleventh in an annual series. The last year's program was directed by Walter Horner, Sidney Kramer, Roger McKinney, Fred Zenone, Joan Schutt and Sylvan Friedman.

OPEN HOUSE TO BE HELD
To Show Artists' Work. Joseph and Gwyneth Brown Professor and Mrs. Joseph Browns will hold Open House this Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Public Library.

Prof. Brown teaches both sculpture and boxing at Princeton University, and his wife is an artist and illustrator. As guests of the U.S. Department of State, they went to a work and study tour last year.

An exhibit of their work was held at the Woodrow Wilson Lodge and many of the figures and paintings showed the influence of Asia upon their work. Soon after the exhibit at the Public Library, they will return to Asia to visit schools, libraries, universities and cultural centers in five countries. The subjects they have chosen for presentation to boys and girls is "Faces Lost and Found." They will illustrate certain points concerning their work by drawing and sculpturing on the spot.

This is the first of a series of Open Houses to be held at the Public Library as part of the "Asian Summer." The Asia Committee, made up of boys and girls will serve as hosts and hostesses.

JOINS FACULTY: Mrs. Janice Harsanyi will join the voice faculty at Westminster Choir College in September.

Topics Of The Town

Children are welcome and adults are invited if accompanied by a child. Admission is free.

SOPRANO ON FACULTY

Mrs. Harsanyi Named. Mrs. Janice Harsanyi of 111 Laurel Road will join the voice faculty of Westminster Choir College this fall. A soprano, she made her debut with the Philadelphia Orchestra and has sung with that group 17 times. Mrs. Harsanyi is a Westminster graduate and attended the Academy of Vocal Arts in Philadelphia. She has appeared as a soloist with the Symphony of the Air under Leopold Stokowski and the National Symphony under Howard Mitchell. She has appeared in recital and oratorio. Mrs. Harsanyi won the National Scholastic Association's Distinguished Award in Choral Composition in 1947. She recently recorded Orff's Carmina Burana with the Philadelphia Orchestra.

BUILDING IS STARTED

For First Aid Unit. Ground has been broken by the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad for its new building at Clearview and Harrison Streets.

A feature of the building is the flattened angularity of the plan with walls roughly paralleling the streets. According to the architect, George E. Lewis of 41 Fisher Avenue, the use of the odd angle was suggested by similar instances in true colonial design, and is used to stiffen the building structurally.

Most of the materials have been selected for their appearance uncovered, or have been used as part of the design instead of covering up those that are done the work. For example, the structural walls are textured and insulate the building; the edge of the roof (framing) is used as a cornice and the roof beams become strong decorative features inside and are used as light troughs in the meeting room. Coexisting of two wings, there is an entrance giving access to both sections and the basement. One wing provides space for two ambulances, a rescue wagon and a boat trailer. The other wing contains a meeting room, and an adjacent kitchen in the basement there is a recreation room, a bunk room for men on night duty, a heater room and a large storage room. Included in special equipment are radio and telephone systems and emergency lighting.

FREE LENDING LIBRARY

Founded in 1939, the squad is manned by trained volunteers and supported entirely by voluntary contributions. Its two ambulances, rescue wagon and boat have been housed in a portion of the Chestnut Street Firehouse, where inside the space has hampered full development of the squad. The building, scheduled to be completed by the first of the year, will be the work of Lewis C. Bowers and Sons, Inc.

Present at the ground-breaking were First Aid and Rescue officers G. DeWitt Boice, president; Albert Toto, treasurer; Raymond Rodewiler, first lieutenant; William Parke, second lieutenant; and William Rodewiler, head driver. Also present were Mr. Lewis and Malcolm Roszel, the latter representing Bowers.

NEW HOURS SCHEDULED
At Dutch Neck Township Hall. For two weeks, July 23 to August 4, the West Windsor Township Hall in Dutch Neck will be open only from 9 to 12 noon. Police calls during that period should be directed to the home of Constable Wesley Holman, SWinburne 9-1296.

TWO LOSE LICENSES

In Traffic Court. Gordon L. Cupples, 20, 25 Bank Street, and Edward Sussick, 37, 12 Craven Lane, Lawrenceville, had their licenses revoked in traffic court Monday by Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tams, Jr.

Mr. Cupples lost his license for 30 days and was fined $15 for taking on a passenger in an improper manner. Mr. Sussick was fined $20 and lost his driving privileges for 60 days for careless driving. Both pleaded guilty.

Edward McEwen, 37, 161 Edward Street, was fined $21 for speeding. For driving without lights, Goldman Kidd, 27, 76 Columbia Avenue, Hopewell, was fined $25 while John L. Armonia, 19, 54 Harris Road, was fined $15 for operating a car with no low headlight beams.

Sam R. Dezaualante, 50, 1015 Princeton Pike, was fined $25 after pleading guilty to an unregistered vehicle charge. Robert S. McCalley Jr., Carter Road, was fined $15 for a late inspection offense.

In Township Court. Magistrate James S. Hill fined Joseph F. Vaccarino, 20, Grand View Avenue, Hopewell, $20 and revoked his license for 30 days for failing to yield the right of way.

Fines of $15 were levied against Frank J. Sannino, 16. —Continued on Page 16

DOES IT MATTER where a municipal employee lives? "No," says Mark Kleinman (right); "Yes," replies Hy Lilwen. (Staff Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: Do you agree with Trenton's Mayor Holland who says that a municipal employee should also have to be a resident of the community he works for?

Where asked: Palmer Square.

Joseph L. Bolster, 124 Parkside Avenue, education administrator: I think it is a good idea to try to select someone from the community if they are well-qualified, that certainly should be the first area of consideration. But I think if someone is better qualified from another area, that should not preclude his being considered and employed. A lot would depend, too, on the position.

Hy Lilwen, Lakewood, parts manager for Lahiere-Kane: Yes, I feel that anybody that is going to work for a municipality should be a resident of the community. I think people living in the community should, at least, be given the first opportunity to work for the community. However, I also feel a person's qualifications should enter into it in some degree, whether he is a member of the community or not.

Mrs. Schubert M. Christian, 15 Hawthorne Avenue, housewife: I don't think it should be necessary. He has a good point in that a resident might have the town's welfare more at heart. But Princeton, for example, is a very expensive place to live and someone might not be able to afford this, where they could a nearby community. They shouldn't be penalized if they can find better or cheaper living conditions outside the community they work for.

John W. Zatter, 69 Alexander Street, assistant professor, Latin and Greek, Dartmouth College: Yes, I do, very strongly. He has something invested in the problem close at hand. He has a vested interest in the job. He's actually helping to pay himself through the taxes he pays. If he doesn't choose to live in the place that is paying his salary, then there's something wrong.

Andrew Young, Penns Grove, retired general superintendent for DuPont: I don't agree with that at all. This is America. A fellow's got the right to live where he wants to, where it is most economical for him or where he has friends. The mayor has no right whatsoever to dictate where a person should live. This is a free country. We've got liberties and he is restricting those liberties.

should matter where he lives.

Mrs. Marian Hookridge, Schoenady, N. Y., French teacher: In principle, I feel the nearer we keep the local government in the hands of the people that live there, the better. I feel too much centralization also leads to too little interest in the affairs of the community.

Austin Macauley, 188 N. Harrison Street, clerk, Thorne Pharmacy: I wouldn't think so normally, but in some instances, such as a fireman for example, who would have to be familiar with the town to perform his duty well, it would be advisable. I feel he must have a good reason for wanting this. And in a way I suppose it's true that a person would have a better idea of his job if he lived right in the community.

Ernie Hunt, 90 Westcott Road, machinist: No, why should they? I don't feel people should be told by their employer where they have to live.

BUSINESS In Princeton

GENERALLY HEALTHY
State of Business Here. The quarter which saw a long slide in stock market prices, elixated by the sharpest break in three decades, has not immediately been reflected in a downward trend in the Princeton Business Index. The upward movement which traditionally sets in with the arrival of spring is indicated by the frequent use of plus signs in the Index over the winter quarter, which ended March 31.

For example, parking meter receipts are 11 percent lower for the first six months of this year than they were as of June 30, 1961. The value of building permits issued in Princeton Township, where the bulk of the residential activity in this area occurs, is 36 percent lower than last year.

Down, too, is a figure given much support nationally as a barometer of economic well-being. New car sales are ten percent below those quoted last July in TOWN TOPICS Index.

Which Way? These are the only significant signs pointing downward, and it is too early to tell whether they will gain momentum during the summer of 1962, or will encounter counter support. In the April Index, for example, every major trend was one on which "conservative optimism" might be based.

On the plus side, savings accounts in Princeton's four financial institutions are up 11 percent over a year ago; loans, which keep money in circulation, are up 12 percent; and both figures show slight gains over the first quarter in 1961.

New housing starts in the Township are in a healthy state when contrasted to 1961—up 36 percent. However, the value of construction in the Borough—showing immense gains of 109 percent in the last year and 226 percent in the last quarter—is not the important stamp it might be. Virtually all the dollar value is reflected in a few unusually large projects undertaken by Princeton University. Just two of these—the addition to the Graduate College and the expanded School of Architecture on the campus—total $2,725,000 between them, while the new School of Music accounts for another $500,000.

The Business Index was devised by TOWN TOPICS as a means of reflecting accurately trends within the community's economy on a quarterly basis. It is now in its third year of publication.

GRIGGS GETS COURT OK
To Build Gas Station. In a decision handed down last week, the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court has upheld a lower court decision, permitting Burnett Griggs to build a gas station at the corner of Witherspoon and Hul-fish Streets. The court's ruling ended 18 months' legal tug-of-war between the restaurateur and the Borough Zoning Board.

Previously, Superior Court Judge Ralph J. Fusco had ordered the Zoning Board to issue a building permit to Mr. Griggs. Judge Fusco had ruled that the Board's action in refusing a permit was "arbitrary and unreasonable." The Zoning Board had maintained that a "dangerous situation" would be created by the erection of the station.

Judge Fusco said that the Board was unable to offer proof of any dangerous situation nor could he find any evidence that one would be created. The Appellate's decision in support of Judge Fusco's ruling was unanimous. David Dietz, Mr. Griggs' attorney, said he felt no further appeal could be made by the Board because it does not appear that the case involves any constitutional question.

The dispute originated in October 1960 when Mr. Griggs proposed to tear down his restaurant at 38 Witherspoon Street and construct a gas station in its place. The battle was joined when the Zoning Board refused to issue a "special exception" under the zoning laws to Mr. Griggs to build.

SALE-LEASE COMPLETED
Of Palmer Motor Inn. The 100-unit Palmer Motor Inn on Route 1 has been sold to Palmer Associates of which Justin Piscopo is a partner, and then leased back in turn to Palmer Motor Inn, Inc., of which Mr. Piscopo is president. The sale was reported by Brenner & Lewis's Company, New York brokers.

Completed in May, the hotel adjoins a new motion picture theatre and bowling alley. In addition to the 100 units, it has a restaurant and bar which can accommodate some 250 persons.

The asking price was approximately $1 million. The lease, also negotiated by Brenner and Lewis, will total in excess of $3 million. Management of the property will remain under Mr. Piscopo since he is president of the leasing corporation.

SPORTS In Princeton

FOOTBALL OUTLOOK-I

This is the second of a series of four articles on Princeton football prospects for 1962.)

Sophomores Above Average. On a chill, extremely windy Saturday last November, Princeton's unbeaten freshman eleven waited for the coin toss that would determine the choice of goals in its game with the Yale Class of 1965. The Eli captain called correctly, chose a 40-mile-an-hour gale at the back and guided his team into a first-period advantage over the Tiger cub that meant an eventual 20-to-6 victory.

It is entirely conceivable, of course, that the outcome might have been the same without the wind, but the gusts were so strong and so steady that the team heading into them could not pass with any accuracy and punts rarely netted ten yards. The effect was to create a degree of adversity for Princeton's high-riding freshmen that was completely new to them, as was eventual defeat. The Blue pushed over two quick touchdowns, disorganization set in among the Princeton contingent and it could not retaliate when it finally got the advantage of the wind.

The loss probably will have beneficial effects on Princeton's upcoming sophomores, who will have enough problems converting to the varsity level without being weighted down with fat heads. Earlier in the season, the Class of '65 had whipped its counterparts at five other colleges in this fashion: Rutgers, 36-12; Columbia, 27-8; Cornell, 14-3; Penn, 35-0; and Harvard, 14-0. No Princetonian ever has defeated by Yale anything but galling, yet it inevitably will be helpful this season that the sophomore crop cannot consider itself world-beaters.

There was even in the face of mild demoralization against Yale, a distinctly impressive squad. It was big (among the top prospects are a 6-5, 200-lb. end; a 5-11, 205-lb. guard; a 6-1, 215-lb. tackle), and it was deep. Coach Pop McCarthy could substitute a complete second team that often held its own with the regulars. Best of all, the Class of '65 had an obvious love for playing football with an attitude toward the grueling sport that is essential through a drawn-out, 13-

ALMOST AS QUICKLY as you can say "Cosmo Iacavazzi" and "Ernie Pascarella," these two sophomores will become a part of Princeton's 1962 football picture. Cos (32) is captain and fullback of the strong freshman team last fall. The 215-lb. Pascarella looms as a top tackle prospect.

week season composed alternately of searing heat, ankle deep mud, occasional snow and myriad bangs, bruises, muscle pulls and more serious injuries.

Time to Build. Fortunately from point of view of Princeton's 1962 prospects, this highly promising class will not have to be brought along too quickly. As reported here last week, the Tigers' losses by graduation are extremely few, and the risky experiment of filling several key positions with first-year players need not be tried.

Yale's Jordan Olivar has said, "For every sophomore you start, you are likely to lose a game." It's an apt method of measuring; a team so short of experienced material that it must use five sophomores as regulars would quite likely have difficulty in topping a 4-5 mark for the season.

By positions, these are the 14 sophomores whose development will bear watching, based on estimates by the coaching staff of their potential:

Ends: One of the two positions where graduation losses will be felt has a minimum of three good sophomores who are expected to add depth to the squad. A top prospect is Jim Batceller (6-1-180) who ranks as a good pass receiver and solid two-way player. His brother, Gordon, was an all-ivy tackle for Princeton in 1959.

Kil Lawrence, the ranking longside end last fall, may develop into a defensive stand-out and will contribute a 6-3, 200-lb. frame to the cause two-way potential.

The name that caused most comment last fall, partially because of the name itself, was Cosmo Iacavazzi. Had he been called Joe Smith, he would, however, have had his name mentioned as often, because Cos played a lot of fullback—averaging a touchdown a game.

Extremely rugged at 5-11 and 190, he is a fine line-buster and an experienced defensive player. It could be that he will become the only member of his class to earn a starting berth at Blairstown. His replacement on the freshman eleven was Roy Pizzarello (5-8, 175) who will add to the Tigers' depth at fullback this fall.

Missing from the picture in the evaluation of the sophomores are center and quarters backs, where the Class of '65 could not quite measure up a year ago. On an overall basis—

Pete Tucker, about the same build, should see action as a reserve end and may become a "wild card" as the team's chief punter.

Tackles: Put down the name of Ernie Pascarella as one that will be heard with increasing frequency. A 215-lb. operative, he has the mobility that many a big man lacks, and should fit firmly into the Princeton picture this fall. Wendell Cane, who paired with Pascarella as the other tackle slot in 1961, likewise will have his 210 pounds in considerable evidence.

Guards: Ron Bonomo (5-10, 180) is, with Pascarella, the other standout prospect among the sophomore linemen. Relatively small, extremely sturdy and very fast, he has all the makings of the "running guard" who pulls out of the line to provide scythe-like interference for the devastating fullback sweep. Ned Porter (6-1, 195), an aluminate of the football factory at Marion, Ohio, ranks just behind Bonomo, while solid physical stature (5-11, 205) is provided on the other side of the line by Don Pett.

Backs. Six sophomores of above-average ability will supplement the varsity holdovers—two wingbacks, two tailbacks, two fullbacks. Doug Tufts, like Captain Dan Terpack in that he weighs only 165, was last fall's freshman starter and is likely to rank behind Terpack and Jim Rothenbach. Tony Krausen, also no more than 165, is figured for occasional duty in a well-stuffed position.

Don McKay and Johnny O'Brien are both promising triple-threat tailbacks but if the varsity trio of Greg Riley, Hugh MacMillan and Pete Porietis remain injury-free, they'll spend a fair amount of time on the bench. If an emergency develops, however,

CHAMPION REPEATS
In Men's Singles, A straight set victory was recorded by Fritz Duple over Sandy Swartz in The Men's Tennis Singles Tournament Saturday, the winner thereby retaining the title he won a year ago. Both sets went into extra games, Duple prevailing by 7-5 and 9-7.

On his way to the finals, the victor eliminated Everett Wood, 7-5, 6-3, in the quarter-final round and John Glouchvitch, 6-2, 6-1, in the semi-finals. Swartz topped David Schaeffer, 6-4, 3-6, 6-4, in a hotly-contested match before taking two love sets from David Martin Katz.

Edgar Levy also reached the quarter-finals, losing to Glouchvitch, 6-3, 2-6, 6-4, while Gary Duple lost to Katz in the same round, 6-1, 6-2. There were 33 contestants in the tournament.

Mixed Doubles play started this week, with the final event of 1962 season, The Men's Doubles, scheduled to start Monday. Entries may be made through Friday at the Municipal Courts, or until noon Saturday at the YMCA.

TULLY WINS AGAIN
In Tennis Tourney, Shawn Tully, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Tully of 17 Dempsey Avenue, won the Connecticut State Junior championship tennis tournament in the 14-and-under division, in which he was seeded third.

He defeated his opponent in the finals, 6-0, 6-2. Earlier this summer, Shawn won the singles title in the Nassau-Suffolk Junior championships and also Princeton's 15-and-under championship.

EMR MOVES UP
With Once Win over RCA, A six-run rally in the third inning which overbalanced a five-run outburst by RCA in the top of that frame gave Electro-Mechanical Research a 10-8 triumph last week in the Business Softball League. The victory brought with it a share in third place with Gulton Ortho, a move of two rungs up the ladder for EMR in the tightly-bunched standings.

Fred Croa was the winning pitcher in the high-scoring affair, with Ralph Simon absorbing the loss. Ron Infant, Frank Osborne and Jack Gallagher collected ten hits among them for EMR. Infant and Gallagher contributing homers. Dave Richman's three run for including a home run, paced RCA.

ETS added in its lead by the feature Gulton Ortho homday, 12-6, while second-place Engineering Research was taking a 13-3 drubbing from Industrial Reactor. Jack Duple won his eighth and boosted the defending champion to 9-1 for the season as Bill Debesky hammered out two homers for ETS. Tom Curran hit one for the distance for Gulton.

Joe Williams had a five-for-five evening as Industrial Reactor caught up with the 360 mark in a 13-3 tacing of Electro-Mechanical Research. The users collected five hits and three runs in the first but Steve Voris settled down thereafter, blanking EMR the rest of the way. Meanwhile, Industrial Reactor scored in all of the last five innings, totaling 21 hits for its top offensive performance of the season.

In the fourth contest of the week, Opinion Research racked up its first victory of the season with a decisive 12-4 rout of Columbian Carbon. Lorin Zissman was the winning pitcher.

Frank Cox and Joe Castora hit for the circuit in ORC's hour of glory, while John Bartolino came up with three for four on behalf of Columbian. As usual, nearly all but these two entries have a good shot at the four playoff berths.

The standings:

WILDCATS, BOMBERS WIN
In Summer Basketball, The Wildcats and the Bombers were winners last Wednesday evening in the first games played in the four-team Summer Basketball League. The teams battle each other every Wednesday at the Harrison Street court, starting at 6:15.

In Wednesday's first contest, the Wildcats and their opponents, the Jets, were both off their shooting, the half ending at 17-17. During the second half, neither team was able to lead the other by more than two points until the final four minutes of play when the Wildcats spurred ahead with four quick baskets and went on to win, 47 to 35. High scorer for the victors was Tony Bocanuso with 16. Bert Carr had 14 for the Jets.

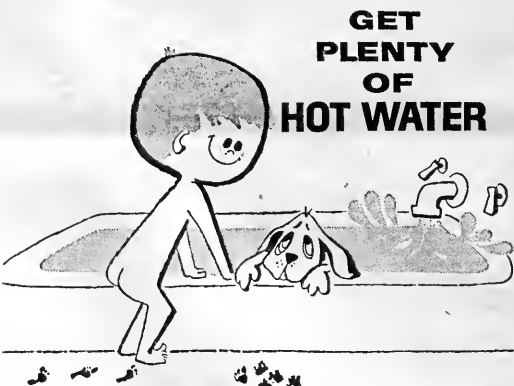

The second contest was never in doubt. The Bombers built up an 18-point half-time margin and went on to win easily, 82-37. The winners displayed a well-balanced scoring attack with Tom Jones hitting for 18 points, Ray Cervera, 17, and Bob Granelle, 16.

Dear Traveler?

When we get through exploring the Forum and the Colosseum in Rome we're going to pack all the food we can carry and tote along some clean clothes and go through the WHOLE Louvre! When we finally emerge we shall probably be in our debtage and ready for a L-O-N-G coffee break. Left Bank or Right Bank I'm sure will make no difference as long as we can relax. Maybe I'll take mine with me at the Bateau Mouché while we circle the Isle de Cite. Such a lovely trip and so nice and cool this time of year!

Paris is so different than Rome. Of course it's much younger but the buildings there are taken care of and really are SO LARGE AND SOLID looking that I think nobody would be surprised to see them looking exactly the same ten centuries from now.

Well, I've got to start packing my sandwiches.

See you next week.

News Of The CHURCHES

SCHOOL BOARD APPROVES
Church May Use School. The gray boundary between church and state confronted the Township School Board last week after the Supreme Court decision against prayers in the public schools. The board acted on the advice of Borough and Township attorney Gordon D. Griffin and granted permission to the Unitarian Church to hold Sunday School in the Valley Road School.

The request had been made by Mrs. Florence Faus and Susan Boone of the Unitarian Church, who asked for the space until the church builds an extension to its school building. The school board noted that at one time the Township had used the building facilities to help meet its own problem of overcrowding. The solicitor stated in a letter to Norman J. Anderson, secretary of the school board, "Of course, the constitutional question of using public money or facilities for religious purposes is involved, though attenuated in this case. It seems to me, by the church paying its way."

"I have consulted the appropriate agency in the State Department of Education and am informed that uses of this type are widely made; that the State Department of Education does not take a position opposite such use, and that no such use has ever been judicially tested in this State.

"My advice and recommendations are, therefore, as follows: that the proposed use may be permitted by the Board on a temporary basis; that all costs in connection therewith be paid by the church, so that there is no subsidizing thereof by public money; that the use be so scheduled as not to interfere with any public school functions; and that no religious paragon be permitted on the premises except during the times of the actual use of the facilities by the church; and that even then such paragon be so arranged as not to be visible to the general public."

SUMMER, WINTER, FALL OR SPRING
HERE ARE FOUR QUITE INTERESTING

"THE MOST BEAUTIFUL HOUSE IN PRINCETON" - Many feel that its simple elegance and perfect proportions cannot be matched in Princeton's superb Western Section. Certainly its white-washed brick exterior and stunning decor would make it a knockout anywhere. Living room and library both have fireplaces and open to flagstone terrace. Formal dining room, pantry, kitchen, and powder room. Five bedrooms and three baths on second floor, bedroom, living room, and bath on third. Lovely gardens, en-tout-cas tennis court and covered spectators' pavilion. A unique house in a distinguished location. $125,000

ABSOLUTE PERFECTION is the only word to describe a house of this kind. The wide covered front porch leads to a flagged foyer and gracious reception hall with colonial staircase. Living room with fireplace framed by a gleaming paneled wall. Dining room. Equipped kitchen has plenty of eating space. Laundry, powder room, and family room with sliding glass doors to fenced terrace. Upstairs, three bedrooms, one of which has a wall of handsome bookcases and two full baths. Sun deck, nearly new wall to wall carpeting, and professional landscaping. You won't have to lift a finger to this one—it's in immaculate condition. Move right in at $43,200.

THE PRESTIGE AND CONVENIENCE of its Riverside location, making this four bedroom home well worth the consideration of the discriminating buyer. Separate living rooms for children and adults, dining room, kitchen, four bedrooms, one bath, and two well-placed lavatories. Basement, two-car garage, and wood room. Heavily painted lot. $37,000

THE ELUSIVE OLDER HOUSE - A two-story colonial in an excellent Township location just over the Borough line. Entrance hall with adjoining powder room, 24 foot living room with fireplace, separate dining room, and big kitchen. Four upstairs corner bedrooms and bath. Attic, basement, detached dog house. Smallish lot with old trees. Hold on to your hat, it's only $29,500. We never have many like this, so it won't be around for long!

Is This Cupola Really Necessary?

No... it is not. It only symbolizes those little extras that go into every home designed by award-winning architect Herman H. York for PRINCETON RIDGE.

Come to Rocky Hill and see the many other touches of authenticity that belong to the PRINCETON RIDGE homes. Each one is on an acre or more, and enjoys the advantages of the Princeton Borough school system plus the low taxes of Rocky Hill Borough.
